Did Better Than Delegates From Other Territories, He Tells Aala Crowd.

NEVER FOUGHT SUGAR MEN

Opening Rally of G. O. P. Brings Out Big Crowd, Which Shows Enthusiasm.

(From Sunday Advertiser)

Announcing that his record in congress had satisfied him and consequently must be good enough for the rest of the people of Hawaii, Delegate Kalanianoʻe broke his long silence by a lengthy address at the Republican rally at Aala Park last night, for which a large crowd of voters had gathered, the hearers outnumbering those who had been present at the Democratic opening meeting on Thursday. The crowd last night grew quite enthusiastic at times, warming up as the fires of oratory grew from warm to hot, concluding with a regular old-time campaign speech by Judge George A. Davis.

The main speech of the evening was, of course, that of the Delegate, who spoke in both English and Hawaiian. He repeated none of his famous charges against Governor Frazier, but justified the making of those charges because of the good that will eventually result for Hawaii from the visit of the secretary of the interior. He came quite near saying that he was satisfied that he had been wrong, in a remark to the effect that the Republican party in Hawaii had become once more a united party. Charles Achi first justified the banana campaign and then gave all the credit of it to the Democrats, his inverse reasoning being apparently quite satisfactory to him. Rev. Stephen Desha talked a great deal but said nothing, his word-weaving being fanciful adaptations of Hawaiian legends to the appearances or deeds of the various Republican candidates.

Shingle Led Off.

The meeting was opened by Robert W. Shingle, who said: "The Republican party has met here this evening to present to you the Delegate and candidates on the Republican ticket, and who in turn will ask you to support the Republican platform."

"Mind you, fellow citizens, we do not claim that everything is satisfactory in the present administration of this Territory, but we do claim that we have tried to improve upon the things that are radically wrong, and have with us this evening the candidates who are pledged to carry out our platform, which to a large extent covers most of the things that should be improved."

"In a few days, we will mail to every citizen in the Territory a copy of this platform, and I don't want any one to show me where this platform does not give a square deal to rich and poor alike."

"Fellow citizens, you will hear the cry go up from our opponents, telling you that Mr. Wilson will be the next President of the United States. Personally, I do not believe this will happen, and I have enough faith in the sober-minded American public to feel that when the time comes, they will realize that in order for the country to be progressive, Wilson must stay at home. Neither do I believe that the people will stand for the Bull Moose, which, to my way of thinking, is one percent Moose and the remaining ninety-nine percent Bull. Certainly, we of us in Hawaii, who have the interests of the country at heart, can not see how Democracy will help Hawaii, and for this reason alone, I am assured that McCandless will not be elected."

Bananas and Poi.

"All our Democratic friends have talked to you about has been the subject of bananas and poi. They speak of nothing else, for they have bought into their platform to speak about. We have a plank in our platform also that deals very specifically on the banana and poi question, and I am now going to call upon William C. Achi to tell you what the Republican party intends to do on this subject."

Good Work by Democrats.

W. C. Achi then followed with the banana oration of the evening and showed how the cutting of the bananas might have meant the saving of the lives of a large number of Hawaiians had yellow fever really come into the country. Mr. Achi showed that the work of a band of Democrats; that it was two Democratic doctors, representatives of the federal government, who had suggested cutting down the bananas and that the majority of the laborers who had done this work had been Democrats and also that the Democratic mayor of the city had signed the ordinance appropriating five thousand dollars of the county's finances to carry out this work. The Democrats had tried to take advantage of a law passed by the last legislature, but when this was appealed to the supreme court, it was found that the authorities had no business to cut down the bananas and that in so doing they had usurped power that the legislature had not given or intended to give them.

The candidates for office on the senatorial ticket were then allowed a few minutes apiece in which to introduce themselves to the electorate and Kaho then followed with the main address of the rally.

Kaho's Address.

Chairman Shingle introduced Delegate Kaho as the man who had been serving this Territory faithfully in congress the last ten years and who should be elected. While the Delegate had preferred charges against Governor Frazier's administration, said the chairman, no one ever questioned his sincerity in the matter.

"If I have disgraced you in congress, don't vote for me," said Kaho in Hawaiian. "On the other hand," continued the speaker, "if you think I have done the right thing by you and the Territory, I solicit your votes. Judge Wilder a few nights ago stated from this stand that I was tied hand and foot, and even that I had a ring in my nose and was being led around by the planters. On the other hand, 'Link' McCandless, the other day in Kauai, said that I was fighting the planters and advised our people not to vote for me. Whose advice are you going to take?"

"Kaho attacked our party a few nights ago on the banana question, which has been fully explained to you by Mr. Achi. Neither the Republicans nor the Democrats could stop the cutting of the bananas. This banana destruction was led by the federal doctors here; their laws are superior to ours. We did not, and do not now, approve of the banana campaign; but remember that was done months ago. It is passed and gone. What we want now is something to improve our condition for the future. Let us look forward and not backward."

The Homestead Fight.

"There are more vital questions to be considered. Take the homestead question. The Republican party has been working for its improvement and will be striving for it until it succeeds on this important matter. I have fought for it in the past and will keep the fight on until we accomplish what we expect and know the people want."

"Link, a few nights ago, spoke of the Punchbowl lands. Instead of telling the truth he has invented a story the records do not prove. I personally called on the Punchbowl people in relation to these lands on three different occasions and asked them if they had any objections as to the Governor's method of carrying out the law in relation thereto. No one has ever questioned the Governor's attitude. In fact, they all approved of it. Then, how can Link come here and make such statements?"

Happy Family Now.

"I stand on this platform and appeal to you to vote the straight Republican ticket. We have had our differences, but now we are united on one platform and we expect to carry out every plank in it."

"Take our senatorial ticket. Dowsett, born and raised in this country; married a Hawaiian woman; has children who are Hawaiians. His interests are all here. What excuse have you for not voting for him? Renton also; another Island-born boy, whose interests are all here and who will be damaged more than any of you if vicious laws are passed. Kaleiopi; you all know, has a clean record. Support him."

"If you want to see the platform, which was framed to suit you and me, carried into effect, then support the whole legislative ticket. Vote for the senatorial as well as the house candidates. If you have any faith in me, then I ask you to vote the straight ticket. I want supporters in the legislature and I am certain the Republican party will give us that support."

No Offense for Fern.

"In reference to the county ticket, I wish at this time to state, before I say much more, and I do not mean anything derogatory to Fern, that we have a ticket which should be supported from top to bottom."

"Pacheco, a Democratic candidate, stated here the other night that he had visited congress and while there, asked the people where the Delegate's seat was. The ushers, said Pacheco, pointed out my seat and said: 'There it is, all covered with mildew.' It has not been occupied for some time."

"I wish to ask you, what has that to do with your Delegate? The real question is, what has he done for you? Do you suppose I could have accomplished more if I had kept the mildew off my seat? Could I have done more for Hawaii if I had worn a hole in the seat of my trousers?"

When Joseph Fell Down.

"You have heard that James Bryce, British ambassador to Washington, passed through Honolulu the other day. Secretary of State Knox was here twice recently and so was Secretary of the Interior Fisher here for some weeks. Mayor Fern never moved off his tracks to meet any of them. Now, this is something foreign to true Hawaiian hospitality. I blame Fern for not entertaining the distinguished gentlemen. It was his place and his duty to do so, as a Hawaiian and mayor of Honolulu."

Not "Mad" Enough.

Following his remarks in Hawaiian, Kaho then made his address in English. He did not seem to be warmed up properly to his subject and rambled a good deal. It is known among local politicians that Kaho must be made "mad," as one Hawaiian stated last night, before he really can make a good English speech.

"I want to call your attention to my record in congress," began the Delegate. "I think I can say this, that your Delegate has accomplished more in congress for these islands than have the Delegates from New Mexico and Oklahoma ever been able to do for their Territories. They have more power. I have less, but I have had results, which are what count in the long run."

"As your representative I am not one of those men who make speeches in congress for home consumption. You read those in the Congressional Record by the yard. Does this kind of speechmaking accomplish any good? I have never asked anything for Hawaii that we have not received. I do not introduce bills for things I know we can never get. I don't make speeches. Now, if I were in congress, the Record would be filled with his speeches but would bring results to Hawaii? I do not think so. On Kauai 'Link' told the people, in English, that I was opposed to the people, while in Hawaiian he said I was tied hands and feet to the planters and their interests."

His Fear Fiasco.

Here, Kaho referred to his charges against Governor Frazier's administration. "While I have been opposed to the administration on certain matters of policy, I am not opposed to the planters nor their interests. I am no foe to fight against sugar, which is the mainstay of this Territory. In regard to my position on the banana question, I feel that I am right and that I am making a fight for the common people of Hawaii. I don't know if this Territory, since annexation, what has been done toward the Americanization of the Hawaiian race. There was an important point from an American point of view. When Roosevelt was President and Carter was governor here, the President insisted that Americanization should be the foremost thing to work for in Hawaii. Was it done? Instead, we have imported thousands of Filipinos and lowered our standards. What we want is European immigration of the kind that will assimilate and work toward the eventual Americanization of Hawaii and make of these islands a real American community."

Government by Commission.

"I believe the time is coming when we will have government by commission if we don't look out, and if we don't fight the way I am fighting today. Shall we turn the electorate of this Territory into the hands of aliens? I say no! If we don't Americanize Hawaii properly what will those in authority do? Our votes will be taken away from us and we will have government by commission. The last census showed the Japanese children were more than equal to the children of all other races here. Now, this is something serious, and we must be prepared to meet the issue."

Nothing Personal.

"In my fight against the administration I have been sincere. I feel I am right, and that is why I have made the fight. There is nothing personal in the whole matter. I am not fighting against the middleman, the poor man, and for all of us. I am right and everybody says the best thing which ever happened for Hawaii was to have Secretary Fisher come here and investigate conditions of our island life. I think so, and agree with them."

"I am running again for congress, and I ask your support, not alone for myself but for all the candidates of my party, the Republican party. When you come down to the question of the tariff, just think what the Democratic party stands for: free trade and the reduction of our sugar. Sugar is the mainstay of this Territory. Even if Wilson is elected President, send a Republican to congress, so that everybody will know we do not stand for free trade nor for the reduction of the tariff on sugar. I think I am the proper man."

Following Kaho, the county and legislative candidates in turn addressed the gathering, one minute being allowed each speaker in order to keep the meeting from dragging along into the Sabbath.

Reverend Desha, the Hilo orator, took occasion to sing the praises of the several candidates and in several instances quoted old-time Hawaiian mele, which were well received by the Hawaiians present.

Boost for Parker.

W. T. Rawlins spoke in behalf of Captain Robert Parker Waipua, the candidate for the shrievalty, showing that his knowledge of Parker was that he was a man of courage, a man who could be depended on to do what was right and a man who stood for duty all the time. Rawlins told of an occurrence when the Lahaina strike was on. Parker had gone to Lahaina, because so ordered, without telling his supporters that he had a child at home on his deathbed. In this instance Parker had shown the regard he had for duty and the speaker felt that if elected sheriff his candidate would always be the same dependable man.

George Davis was the last speaker of the evening and the old war-horse delivered one of his old-time fireworks speeches. Several times during his address Davis was interrupted by Judge Arthur A. Wilder, but on every instance Davis proved equal to the situation and turned Wilder's questions into ridicule of the interrupter.

DIRECT ORDERS TO MURDER ROSENTHAL GIVEN BY BECKER

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)
NEW YORK, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Notwithstanding that it was Saturday, when adjournment is usually taken over the weekend, the trial of Police Lieut. Charles E. Becker, charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, in front of the Hotel Metropole on July 16 last, went on as usual today.

"Bald Jack" Rose, chief informer against Becker, was called to the witness stand.

"Did you and Becker discuss newspaper interviews that Rosenthal had given?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," Becker told me that I should not worry about that; that he had Jack Sullivan looking after the papers, and that Rosenthal could not get anything printed," said the witness.

"Later Becker told me a morning paper had got an affidavit from Rosenthal and was going to print it."

"I guess Rosenthal means to do what he said he would do,—to squeal and break me," Becker said. "I'll get a couple of gangmen," I told Becker, "and go around and tell Rosenthal if he does not stop his attacks on you something will happen to him."

No Beating; Murder!

"Oh, hell!" Becker said. "I don't want the fellow beaten up; if I did I'd beat him up myself or have him beaten up for resisting arrest. But a beating up won't do for him; he must be put where neither you nor I nor anybody will have to worry about him again."

"What do you want done with Rosenthal?" I asked Becker during the conversation. "I want him murdered—shot—cracked—dynamited—or anything," Becker replied. "I want him put where he will never have to worry about him again."

Most Awful Plot.

NEW YORK, October 12.—(By Associated Press Cable)—Bared in all its hideous ugliness, the story of the plot to kill Herman Rosenthal, the gambler, was outlined today to the jury that is sitting in the case against Police Lieut. Charles E. Becker, charged with conspiracy in the Rosenthal murder.

It was outlined by "Bald Jack" Rose, the self-confessed go-between for

PITCHED BATTLE RAGES NEAR MONTENEGRIN FRONTIER-- TURKS' BRAVE RESISTANCE

Barana Taken and Retaken During Day of Bloody Fighting--Bulgarians Blow Up
Bridges on Line of Retreat.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

LONDON, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Turkish troops on the Montenegrin frontier are offering stubborn resistance to the Montenegrin advance on Scutari, according to the latest advices from Podgoritz. The fighting has been severe; both armies are losing heavily.

The Montenegrin army is advancing in two columns, one operating to the north of Lake Scutari, and the other having its base at Antivari, to the south of Lake Scutari.

King Nicholas' infantry proved admirable. The heavy fighting involved in the attacks by the Montenegrins on the forts at Schipchney Hill, Rogame and Branya, lost in killed and wounded six hundred men to the Turks and four hundred to the Montenegrins.

The arrival of the Montenegrin wounded at the frontier gave rise to rumors in Cetinje that the Montenegrin army had been defeated.

Villages in Flames.

Other reports say that villages on each side of the Boyana river, where the Montenegrin general, Martinovitch, is said to have met with a check from the Turks, are in flames, and that General Vukotich, who is operating in the Boyana district, has crossed the river with his troops.

Town Taken and Retaken.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

LONDON, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Desperate fighting for the possession of Barana between the Turkish and Montenegrin armies in the vicinity of Lake Scutari is in progress. The town has been repeatedly taken and retaken by each side, says a dispatch from Cetinje, today.

The Turkish troops repulsed the Montenegrins after another sharp engagement at Tushi.

The Montenegrin general Lazavitch has taken the place of General Bucevitch, who committed suicide when the king reproved him on the field of battle for wasting ammunition.

Turks Report Victory.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—The relief of the town of Barana by Turkish reinforcements is reported by the military commander of Scutari, today. He also says the Turks have reoccupied the heights around the town of Gusiyo, near the Montenegrin frontier, to the northeast of Podgoritz.

Bulgarian troops blew up two bridges between Istip and Kotschana during the night, according to a telegram from Uskup.

Bulgars March in Rain.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

SOFIA, Bulgaria, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—A torrential rainstorm which prevailed throughout last night has made the roads almost impassable with mud. This condition is entailing much suffering among the troops and also impeding the work of transportation and concentration of men and supplies.

Suicide of General.

CETTINJE, Montenegro, October 12.—(By Associated Press Cable)—General Bucevitch, leader of the Montenegrin forces, has committed suicide, killing himself following a reproach from the king for having wasted his ammunition. Desperate fighting between the forces continues. One hundred and twenty Montenegrins have been killed and four hundred wounded. The Turkish loss is estimated at six hundred.

Sultan Makes Appeal.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 12.—(By Associated Press Cable)—The Sultan of Turkey issued a proclamation urging all of his subjects to "defend the sacred soil soaked with the blood of their ancestors."

MARYLAND ORDERED TO NICARAGUA

SEATTLE, October 13.—(By Associated Press Cable)—The U. S. S. Maryland, which brought Secretary of State Knox here from Japan, and Secretary of the Interior Fisher here from Honolulu, yesterday received orders to sail immediately for Nicaraguan waters, to take part in the task of suppressing the revolution there and of protecting American interests.

the police and gamblers, and the man who is alleged to have hired the gunmen that shot down Rosenthal in front of the Hotel Metropole.

On the stand today Rose promised to tell "every detail of the most awful plot ever hatched." He testified to the jury that he was Becker's agent in Rosenthal's gambling house, and how he was reporting constantly to Becker. He explained the quarrel between Becker and Rosenthal that resulted in the breaking of their relations.

While the courtroom was hushed in a horrified silence, Rose narrated how he had hired the gunmen, through "Big Jack" Zelig, head of one of the tough gangs operating in the underworld. He swore that Becker said to him, "I want Rosenthal murdered—shot—cracked—dynamited—anything! Shoot him in front of a policeman. Get it over!"

Rose also told the jury that when he informed Becker that murder had been done, the police official replied, "I congratulate you."

Continuing his terrible story this afternoon, Rose described realistically how Becker had viewed the corpse of Rosenthal that is sitting in the case against Police Lieut. Charles E. Becker, charged with conspiracy in the Rosenthal murder.

RED SOX MAKE IT THREE OUT OF FOUR

Nearing Championship, Boston
Crazy With Joy—Bedient
Hero of the Hour.

DOYLE'S ERROR WAS COSTLY

Mathewson's Cunning Failed to Puzzle Boston's Batters
—Score 2 to 1.

(By Federal Wireless Telegraph.)

BOSTON, Massachusetts, October 12.—(Special to The Advertiser)—Hugh Bedient, in his second season with the Boston Americans, today outpitched Christy Mathewson in the fifth game of the series by holding the Manhattan Isle sluggers to three scattered hits and exhibiting at all times a world of speed and a drop curve.

"Matty" was not so puzzling in the early frames, and in the third stanza Larry Hooper, who had singled on his first appearance at bat, sent the Boston rooters into a delirious state of joy by smashing out a long triple. Mathewson had hardly recovered from this jolt

PITCHER BEDIENT,
Who pitched and won yesterday's game for the Red Sox and allowed the Giants only three hits.

when Yerkes, the young second sacker of the Beau Town brigade, contributed another triple, sending the California runner home with the first tally of the game.

A Costly Error.

Then "Larry" Doyle, captain of the Giants, made a costly error of a ground ball from Tris Speaker's bat, and Yerkes failed.

In the succeeding innings Bedient appeared to have found himself, and by his change of pace and effective delivery he kept the New Yorkers sipping the bail in the air as hitting it in the direction of the infielders. His work was not half so brilliant as that of Mathewson in the later periods, however, as the "Big Train" hit his old stride and held the game safely. For five straight innings Mathewson sent the Boston swatters back to the bench in one, two, three order.

Savants for Giants.

Bedient was nipped for a long double into the crowd by "Big Fred" Merkle in the seventh inning. A sacrifice fly sent Merkle to third, and he scored after Gardner erred on a grounder from "Moose" McCormack's bat. The latter had been sent in to bat for Arthur Fletcher. "Art" Seiner took the place of the shortstop in the field in the following inning.

In the eighth and ninth innings Bedient put more "steam" on the ball than ever and the attempts of the Gothamite sluggers to solve his shoats proved unavailing.

Hugh's record in walking the Giants off with three hits is considered remarkable, in the light of the fact that this was his first start in a world's series contest. Bedient was pitted against the craftiest pitcher in baseball today, and he twirled rings around the master.

TRIS SPEAKER,
The Red Sox' heavy hitter and great centerfielder.

Again it was Harry Hooper, product of St. Mary's College, Oakland, California, who led the Bostonians in hitting. Hooper's work was dazzling, and tonight he is the big hero in Boston.

Marquard Last Hope.

Manager John McGraw of the New York team had counted on winning with Mathewson, and the crushing blow dealt him today leaves him only Marquard to fall back on on Monday.

Boston made five hits and one error and New York three hits and one error.

Near Championship.

The Red Sox now have won three games and require to win but one more to hold the 1912 world's championship. The next game will be played at New York, Monday, October 14, as there will be no game tomorrow (Sunday). It is almost certain "Smookey Joe" Wood will pitch for the Red Sox and "Rube" Marquard will do the twirling for the Giants. That it will be a pitchers' battle goes without saying, as for the Bostonians a victory means the championship and for New York defeat means the loss of the 1912 pennant. Marquard will either make or break.

Attendance Heavy.

Today's attendance was $4,693 and the receipts were $63,201. The players do not get any more of the receipts, after yesterday's game, according to a recent rule. Should Boston win the series, each Boston player will receive $4024, as there are twenty-two players in the team. In case the Giants capture the pennant, each of the New Yorkers will get $3849, as there are twenty-three of them playing. Thus, for the loser it will be either $2683 or $2566.

The Details.
